

EARTHENWARE

A Pale grey and a dark Tenmoku glaze continues the fascination for Japan in the Cecilie Manz series of earthenware handmade at small potteries in Seto, Japan. Discover two new colours and the new round vase in this line extension.

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Cecilie Manz' series of Japanese handmade earthenware for Fritz Hansen Objects introduces a special glaze, new colours and a new Round vase.

The unique glaze and colours truly underlines the craftsmanship that define the Fritz Hansen quality as well as the fascination of and respect for the Japanese ceramics tradition.

Like the existing Cecilie Manz earthenware the new vases are handmade at small potteries in Seto, Japan. They express simple Scandinavian design at its best whilst coming across warm and welcoming.

MATERIALS

The new Pale grey glaze with small iron spots emerges individually during the 1230 °C burning process and visually come across as little freckles. This glaze is available for the Jar Vase and the new Round vase and it is a low and subtle design perfect for creating an aesthetic still-life at home – with or without flowers.

The love for Japan continues in the extraordinary Tenmoku glaze available on the existing Vase in the collection.

The new Tenmoku black with individually appearing Iron marks on the rim, emerges during the burning process. It gives a both raw and elegant look – fit for flowers or simply as a decorative sculpture.

DESIGN

Cecilie Manz, year 2018

CECILIE MANZ 1972-

With two artist parents, Cecilie Manz encountered the world of design in early childhood in their workshop. Her own career began in 1992 with an academic education from The Royal Danish Academy of Fine Arts. Following a semester abroad at the University of Art and Design in Helsinki, Manz started her own company, which has been the focus of her work ever since.

"I work with things that have a meaning to me. My general idea is always to have a clear argument legitimizing the designs that I make. Function is essential, and if I cannot formulate a good reason for a new product, it is better to refrain from making it" Cecilie Manz.
